Things you need to know after you have a cervical screening test

"After my cervical screening test" is a PDF written with people with intellectual disability.

It says 4 things that might happen after you have a cervical screening test.

1. You have another test in 5 years.
2. You have the test again in a few weeks.
3. You have the test again in 1 year.
4. You see a specialist doctor in a few weeks.

When you get the results of the test, your doctor will tell you what to do.

We trust this resource

We trust this resource because it is:

- Made with people with intellectual disability
- Made to help, not for profit
- Made by people who know a lot about the topic
- Made in Australia

We've checked this resource, and you can follow our guide to know if health information is true and right for you.

This resource is part of a series

Cervical screening tests

Your cervix is at the top of your vagina. It is inside your body. You can choose to have a cervical screening test to check that your cervix is healthy.

All people with a cervix from age 25 to 74 should have a cervical screening test. These are the ages that people might get cervical cancer. If doctors see changes in your cervix, they can often fix them. These changes can cause cancer if nothing is done.

Some people worry about the cervical screening test. These resources say what happens before, during and after the test. Knowing what to expect can help you worry less.

Show more

This resource was made by

ScreenEQUAL

The ScreenEQUAL website has resources about the Cervical Screening Test for people with intellectual disability.

- vISIT